ENTERTAINMENT AND DINING GUIDE

Marineland Party Set For Tuesday

Dazzling festivity and sparkling entertainment will herald the arrival of 1964 at the Marineland Restaurant on the Palos Verdes peninsula on New Year's Eve, according to owner George M. Foster.

Offering a complete "party package" for only $8.50 per person, fun-seekers will celebrate New Year's Eve with a choice of lobster, steak or squab dinners, favors, dancing to two alternating bands and musical entertainment.

For those not wishing dinner, a $3.50 tab will be charged for merry-makers preferring to dance and enjoy the gala festivity. Bar refreshments will be served to all at no increase in prices, stated Foster, whose Marineland Restaurant staff is still taking reservations.

NEW YEAR'S EVE... The Eligibles, vocal quartet, top the musical revelry at the Pen & Quill in Manhattan Beach on New Year's Eve. Music for dancing will also feature The Instrumentals, another group also slated to entertain celebrants at the hotel-restaurant's New Year's Eve Party in the "Manhattan Room."

'The Wizard of Oz' At Campus Theater

"The Wizard of Oz" will be presented at El Camino College tomorrow and Saturday in the Campus Theater.

Adapted from Frank L. Baum's story of Dorothy's adventures in mysterious and magical Oz, the production offers children a lively musical performance of the classic tale. As in the story, Dorothy's problems begin when a Kansas tornado carries her to Oz and her meetings with the Scarecrow, Tinman and Cowardly Lion. The four friends travel to the Emerald City of Oz where they hope to receive "their hearts desire" from the wonderful Wizard of Oz. Playing Dorothy is Barbara D'Agosta, who has sung musical leads in Southland presentations of "South Pacific" and "Annie Get Your Gun." Miss D'Agosta is joined by Tinman, Mike Hoctor, Scarecrow, Allan McCullom and the Cowardly Lion, Del Cowan.

The production, originated by Les Thomas and director Burnett Ferguson, has been shown throughout communities in Southern California with the intention of giving youth an opportunity to attend and enjoy legitimate theater.

Six performances will be given during the two-day showing beginning at 10:30 a.m., at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. All tickets are 75 cents.

Politi Exhibits Bunker Hill Work

The fading mansions of the Bunker Hill area in Los Angeles will be pictured in an exhibition of recent watercolors and paintings by Leo Politi at Marymount College for three weeks beginning Sunday, Jan. 5.

Politi, award-winning author-artist, will be the guest of honor at a reception to be held the afternoon of the opening from 2 to 5 in the Marymount library on the Palos Verdes Estates campus.

HIGHLIGHTS

Helen Herral, Editor

Looking for a "special occasion restaurant" for holiday guests? The Jump 'N' Jack STEAK HOUSE will transform an evening into an event. This is the house which serves charcoal broiled steaks which can only be described in superlatives.

Also on the superlative side is the service, supervised by a most charming Miss Bobby LoPatriello, and a rosy glow atmosphere lighting the dark, wood-paneled walls and white-clothed table arrangements.

Mrs. Jack Rogers' original holiday decorations, some of the most beautiful you will see, add festive notes of "Happy Holidays."

An enchanted dragon who puffs real smoke, a greedy witch in a gingerbread house, a child's dream of singing angels in a fairyland of clouds-these and many more magical effects to intrigue the young will be seen during the New York Theatre's production of "Hansel and Gretel" double billed with "Legends of the Orient," at Culver City Memorial Auditorium. The program opens today and will continue through Sunday with performances at 10:30 a.m. daily, with Sunday shows at 2:30 and 4:45 p.m.

The order rush is on at STELLINO'S Continental Delicatessen! And on the road are those delicious guest tempters of roast beef, turkey, ham, meat balls, selected salads, breads and other buffet boosters.

Frank Stellino and staff are the greatest for taking the headache out of entertaining as time closes in and "things to do" multiply.

If entertaining out is more to your liking Frank Stellino has the answer here, too, with a Continental Restaurant which features cuisine with a capital C and a banquet room to accommodate large parties.

The GOLDEN BULL Restaurant has been the scene of many private banquets during the current holiday season and many more are scheduled.

This new dinery which features the same famous steaks served in the other Golden Bull houses in the Los Angeles area welcomes parties up to 100 persons. Moderate prices and excellent food is the motto of this house.

Happy New Year! And with you and your friends happily gathered at the House of France, FIGALLE, how can you miss?

Repeat guests, again-and-again, repeat guests, have built this delightful "Bit of Paris" into one of the most popular restaurants of the area.

Co-owners, Rene Bouter and Jules Erdeley, urge reservations NOW for that New Year's Eve celebration.

One of the restaurants being "found" by many residents of the Southwest is Cel Stepicevich's THE TACK ROOM in Peninsula Center.

Cel has plans for celebrating New Year's Eve with a special flourish in his smart new house which features "the best martini's in the world" and choice steaks and seafood.

The exotic atmosphere of the islands, blended with cantonese food, and special entertainment will mark New Year's Eve at the TIKI-KAI. George Blanco, originator of "The Orbit" will be on hand to help you zing into '64.

New York City has no priority on "Broadway"-57 U. S. towns and cities, 1,700 villages have such a street as their main-thoroughfare.
